

Fareham Borough Council Testimonial

The first 12 months of using Body Worn Cameras have been successful for Fareham Borough Council. Alan Carlisle, Parking Enforcement Supervisor says, "the RS2 camera has been a great asset to the Civil Enforcement Officers."

What Users Think

The RS2 units have been received positively. Carlisle commented, "It is light, very easy to use and has been very reliable. The recording quality has been excellent, very clear and the audio has been very good indeed."

Not only do users find the cameras simple and effective, they feel safe in the knowledge that Body Worn Cameras reduce the risk of an assault. "The CCTV cameras give the CEOs more confidence", said Carlisle, "and make them feel more secure in their work, which can be difficult at the best of times."

The Results

Fareham Council introduced the RS2 Body Worn Camera in 2010. During that year attacks on Civil Enforcement Officers were reduced by 66%. Since January this year incidents have declined by a further 80%.

Carlisle was proud to announce that "one serious incident which was recorded is being used as evidence in an ongoing court case." When speaking about the impact of introducing Body Worn Cameras he said, "The reduction numbers speak for themselves."

Conclusion

Carlisle said he would happily recommend the RS2 to other councils. He was also pleased with the customer service Reveal Media provided and said, "The support you give us has been very good indeed."
